Biography

Lisbon, 28th June 2024

My brain is that of a mathematician: analytical, critical, and a natural problem-solver. Although I have a technical background, my social and communicative skills might surprise you. As an AI researcher, I have developed a wide range of technical skills and gained extensive experience in both independent work and group projects. My curiosity for the unknown has taken me around the world, allowing me to engage with different cultures and diverse worldviews.

Altogether, I am independent, sociable, reliable, resourceful, positive, and critical. I am also a quick learner and a transparent communicator. Feel free to reach out for a chat!
