

Spring's surprise

How easy we forget
The warmth of summer's sun
The touch of a tender hand
When the dark days have come

When you don't stop to notice
It seems like life has lost its goal
While when you listen to your heart
You hear the snoring of your soul

I keep to myself to process
Pretty pictures of past paradise
And stay hopelessly ignorant
To let spring shake me by surprise